NOTICE.

It was not the design of the writer to submit this Catalogue to the public without the indorsement of one or more gentlemen, to whose superior judgment and experience in coins it is always a pleasure to render respectful deference ; but the necessity of sending the manuscript to the printer before an opportunity of comparing it with the coins could be secured, has rendered this course imperative.

In thus taking the responsibility of the Catalogue upon himself, the writer relies upon the confidence of those to whom it will be sent. It may confirm that confidence to be assured that an unusual degree of care has been bestowed upon its preparation ; not with any view to scientific, but solely to accurate descriptions. This has been especially observed with reference to the condition of the pieces. It is not easy to convey exact intelligence concerning the history, rarity, and condition of a great number of coins, with the brevity requisite in a sale-catalogue. From the nature of the case, many of the terms employed must be relative, or positive only when positively stated. Thus, "Fine," although never applied to a poor coin, would, in the case of one as rare as Mr. Mickly's Sommer Island penny, be justified, when the actual condition of the piece was below the standard of fineness governing in a series of United States cents. It must also be remembered that the stronger term, "very fine," is still below "uncirculated," or "perfect."

But the intelligent collector will not be misled in the present instance. The collection to be sold, although not large, is strictly a fine one ; and every piece will be found to justify what is said of it in the Catalogue.

WM. H. STROBRIDGE.

NOTE.—The few last lots marked as "extremely fine" are only not described as uncirculated because they show marks of contact with each other, having been, as has all the silver in the Addenda, kept together in one collection for a period corresponding to the dates on the pieces. The entire set of half dollars which is here offered is believed to be second to none, if we except, as we are gracious enough to do, a single collection consisting mostly of proofs.

 The sale of the foregoing Catalogue will commence with the Addenda.
